Cleaning With Gasoline.
In cleaning solid articles in gasoline it is best to use the gasoline hot.
This is a secret of professional cleaners well worth knowing. The gasoline is easily and safely heated by placing the receptacle containing it in a larger one (away from the fire, of course), containing hot water. The gasoline will quickly become hot. Let the solid articles soak an hour, covering all with a thick cloth to prevent evaporation.
Wash in the usual way, using a mild soap if very badly soiled, afterward rinsing in clear warm gasoline and hanging them outdoors to air. If any odor is left pressing it with a hot iron will remove it. Let the gasoline stand covered to settle, when it can be poured off and used again.—Exchange.

Air the Bedding.
Air your bedding thoroughly every morning and you'll not only have better health, but the bed will be fresher and more comfortable. In addition to this daily airing put the mattress, pillows, blankets, comforts and pads out in the sunshine at least once a week and let them air for half a day. If possible find time to gently whip the pillows and mattresses with a light stick or rug beater, for some dust is bound to collect during a week's usage,
and this—which is unhealthy if allowed
to accumulate—in time breeds germs, besides taking elasticity from the feathers and making the hair filling the mattress dull.

Clothes Baskets.
Clothes baskets used in a laundry do not as a rule receive sufficient attention and therefore are the cause of stains on the line. When the week's washing is completed all baskets should be well scrubbed, rinsed and placed in the air to dry. From long use many clothes baskets are stained at the bottom and consequently are covered with a piece of paper, a cloth, etc.
instead of either of these a piece of white old cloth or mackintosh sheet is preferable, for it contains nothing that can stain the clothes and can be wiped dry after using.

Doings Among the Soul Winners.
On last Sunday, June 17, Rev.
E. T. Preston preached in the forenoon at Lost Creek and in the afternoon at Big Branch to large and attentive audiences. The subjects of the discourses were "Heaven" and "Preaching." The people were well pleased. Rev.
George Druschal and wife are the Soul Winner missionaries at these points and are doing splendid work. They have two rousing Sunday schools besides preaching service and prayer meeting.

The Sunday schools will hold a union picnic on July 4.

Miss Hattie C. Kraul had charge of the large Sunday school at the month of Quicksand on Sunday,
during the absence of Bro. Preston. It was a splendid meeting.
Miss Kraul's kindergarten school
is flourishing.

There will be Sunday school on next Sunday, June 24, as usual,
at Round Bottom, on Quicksand,
in James Back's grove, at 10 a. m.
Following Sunday school, Rev.
Edwin T. Preston will preach, as he will at the month of Quicksand in the afternoon, following the regular session of Sunday school.
A hearty welcome to all.

John M. Pattison, Governor of Ohio, died at his home near Cincinnati, O., last Monday. He had been sick ever since his inauguration in January. He was elected Governor last November on the Democratic ticket, by a majority of over 40,000 being the only Democrat elected. He was raised on the farm and held many important positions and was one of Ohio's leading men. He will be succeeded by Andrew L. Harris, a Republican.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CROCKETTSVILLE.

Almira, of Buckhorn, were the guests of John B. Lewis recently.

Sherman Bowling, of Owsley county, was in the neighborhood recently buying sheep and was paying high prices.

Mrs. Goodson Ingram, Eldren
Riley, John Woods, Sambo and Leonard Deaton, accompanied by Misses Anna Ingram, Mary Gay, Netta and Tynanda Deaton, were enjoying a pleasant social and beerobbling.

Little Squire Riley, of Miller Branch, mysteriously lost a very fine dog. A ground hog had made a hole under a rock about a hundred yards from the house, and the dog was barking in the hole.
A few moments later the dog was found dead not far from the rock.
It is thought that there is a poisonous snake near and we would advise that the family be careful for they might also get bitten.

CLAY HOLE.

J. M. Allen and Jake Hounshell went to Jackson on business Monday.

Rufus Davis passed through here
on his return from the Home Coming at Louisville.

The Cumberland Pipe Line Co.
have had a number of men going over the line and cleaning off the right of way.

Dr. Swango passed through here Monday. He had been to see Anderson Harvey's girl who accidentally shot herself. The wound
may prove fatal.

Miss Gibbs, who came here to hold Sunday school has also opened up a day school. All who desire to attend can do so free. This is a great help to the little folks and the people should help the work along.

ROUSSEAU.

Willie Bohanon is over his crop
the second time.

Carl Ely has made a monument
on his dwelling house.

Elihue and Henry Clemons were
at church here last Sunday.

Isaac Holbrooks, of Bays, took dinner with Daniel McIntosh Sunday.

Joe Lovely has bought of Mrs.
Prada McIntosh timber for 8,000
ties on Wolfe Creek.

The people are much pleased with the disappearance of the locusts and are glad that it will be seventeen years before they come back.

Rev. William Lee Taulbee, of Taulbee, was a visitor here last week.

Dan Short, of Berea, was visiting friends here the first of the week.

Mrs. K. F. Crawford, of Oakdale, was visiting friends here Wednesday.

Jerry Taulbee and his mother, Mrs. S. E. Taulbee, of Robbins, were here Monday.

Mr. Merle K. Scott, of Pittsburg, Kansas, spent the week visiting his sister, Mrs. A. S. Henry.

J. B. McLin and J. J. C. Bach went to Letcher county last week to take depositions in an important suit.

Lewis Deaton, W. G. Stamper and G. W. Stamper, of Crockettville, were here on business last week.

Taylor Hurst, Jr., of Pear Tree, who has been attending a medical college at Louisville, has returned home.

Mrs. Ann T. Pitcher, of Nicholasville, is visiting her nephew, Henry S. Barnett, and wife, on the Heights.

Thomas Centers has accepted a position as guard for the prisoners working on the public roads in payment of fines.

Miss Golden Day, daughter of Floyd Day, of Winchester, visited her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Kash this week.

E. P. Landrum and wife have gone to housekeeping and will be at home to their friends at their residence on Highland avenue.

Sylvester Howard and wife returned to their home at Mountain last week.

Miss Mary B. Taulbee, of Taulbee, visited her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Kash this week.

Contracts were last week awarded to J. H. Newland for the plumbing and to H. L. Leete for the steel lining for the jail, they being the lowest bidders for the work.

Samuel E. Patton is erecting a planing mill on Peach Tree street, next to N. B. Combs' barn. He will soon be able to supply the trade with all kinds of dressed lumber.

Newland & Thomas have the contract for making concrete sewer pipe for the large sewer being laid in the western part of town. They received their machinery last week and are turning out good work.

There will be the usual service at the Presbyterian church Sunday at 11 a. m. The pastor Rev. W. W. Powell will preach. Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. On account of the revival meeting in progress in town, there will be no service at night.

J. Stanley Webster, an attorney of Cynthia who accompanied Curt Jett here last week and who was stricken with an attack of nervous prostration, had so far recovered as to be able to return home Thursday. He was cared for by Capt. and Mrs. F. W. Fletcher at their home on College avenue.

Prof. M. C. Marion, of Elizabethtown, was here Tuesday. He is visiting his sister, Mrs. William Day, at Frozen. He taught here in the Lees Collegiate Institute for several years, then went to Florida where he taught in the State Normal School. He is now a Professor in the Elizabethtown college.

Circuit court adjourned last Saturday afternoon after a three week's busy session. The last case disposed of was that of Green Wadkins, charged with the murder of Lee Mann. He was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. The cases of the others indicted with him were continued until the next term.

Births.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. William Jett, on June 17th a 10-lb. boy.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Harlan South, on June 17th a boy. Mrs. South's maiden name was Miss Emma Perkins, of Hazel Green.

Teachers' Institute July 16.

The Breathitt County Teachers' Institute begins at Jackson on Monday, July 16, 1906, with Prof. J. C. Willis, of Lexington, for chief instructor. All who expect to teach in Breathitt will be expected to attend. We extend a wide welcome to all educators.

Very truly yours,

HENRY B. NOBLE.
Supt. C. S. B. C.

Prisoners Taken to the Pen.

Breck Crawford, Sheriff, and his brother, Arch Crawford, of Cope Branch, left here Monday with three prisoners for the penitentiary, convicted at the recent term of court here. They were: Cal Jones, five years for horse stealing; Seymour Swims, two years for horse breaking; and Joe Crawford, one year for false swearing. Green Wadkins was not taken, as he had secured a stay of proceedings for sixty days pending an appeal.

Marriage Licenses.

The following marriage licenses have been issued during the past week:

Wm. Couch, of Lee City and Miss Addie Carpenter of Taulbee; Lewis Deaton and Miss Barbara Stamper, both of Crockettville; Alex. Jenkins and Miss Gracie Howard, both of Lambrie; James Robertson and Miss Maggie Brewster, both of Elkatawa; S. B. Goff, of Robbins, and Miss Mary B. Taulbee, of Taulbee; Albert McIntosh and Mrs. Ellen Griffith, both of Turkey; Wm. Leathers (col.) and Nettie Strong (col.) both of Jackson.

Died From Mad Dog Bite.

Clayton Stacy, of Perry county, died at the residence of Cooley Combs here last Sunday of hydrophobia. He was bitten on the hand by a mad dog in Perry county on April 7th. He went to a doctor immediately and had what is called a mad stone applied, which adhered for more than an hour, but did not abstract all the poison. He came home and was married to a young lady from Jackson before he died and went to Camden City to live. He had been there only a few days when he was taken with convulsions and rapidly grew worse when his friends decided to take him home, but he died in a few minutes after reaching Mr. Combs' house. He was buried here Monday.

Christian Church Dedication.

The new Christian church here was dedicated last Sunday with impressive ceremonies. At the close of the services contributions were asked for and $2,700 was subscribed, which will more than pay all the debts outstanding for construction, furnishing, &c. The church has been built under the management of Rev. W. J. Dodge, the pastor, aided by the members of that church residing here. It is one of the best buildings in the town and would do credit to a city much larger than Jackson. A revival meeting is now going on there, conducted by Evangelist Abram E. Cory, assisted by the pastor and Singing Evangelist Meade E. Dutt. The meeting will continue over Sunday.

Killing on Lost Creek.

James Gillum, Jr., of Lost Creek, hit Thomas Gillum with an ax last Wednesday, from the effects of which he died the next day. There was no one present at the time of the trouble except James and his wife and the deceased man. Gillum came in Monday and surrendered to Judge S. S. Taulbee and waived examination and gave bond in the sum of $2,000 to answer any indictment that may be found against him. The evidence in the case is very meager, but as far as we have been able to learn the facts are as follows: Tom was working in the crop with James, who was his nephew, and was boarding with him. James' wife reported to her husband that Tom had criminally assaulted her on the Sunday before, whereupon James ordered him to leave, and on his refusing to do so hit him with an ax sideways on the side of the head, with the above result.

"The Pillar of Light" begins in this issue.

CURT JETT'S CONFESSION.

It need cause no surprise that Curt Jett has grown tired of playing the part of the scapegoat while the more prominent and more powerful sharers of his guilt went unwhipped of justice.

He was dumb while he believed in their purpose and ability to help him, but now that he sees them shorn of their power, now that he sees them in the net of the law themselves, now that he feels that he has been deserted by them, he refuses longer to bear all the blame for the notorious Breathitt crimes with which those who have made him their tool do not hesitate to saddle him.

So, confessing his own guilt, he now at last opens his lips and tells the story of that guilt—a guilt, which, as has long been patent, was as much the guilt of others as of himself.

The story is a horrible one, but not one whit more horrible than it was thought to be, and known to be, before it was thus put into words by Jett. Nor can it be discredited on the ground that it is a story of a confessed murderer, for, aside from the internal evidences of its truth, it is so fully corroborated by the testimony of other witnesses that it is not really needed to convince an unprejudiced mind as to the real facts in the infamous reign of assassination which so long cursed Breathitt county.

Truly things have changed since the days when the powers behind Jett did as they "dam please," not only in Jackson, but at Frankfort; days when those powers both ruled the courts of Breathitt and dictated legislation at the Capitol, and when the Courier-Journal, single-voiced and alone, arraigned them for their crimes, demanded their punishment and ignored their "fourflush" threats of prosecution for libel. Then they had a great following, not only in the mountains, but elsewhere in the State, especially among the politicians, and they did not lack staunch partisans in the press. Today they are facing the prison doors and the hangman's noose which they intended for Jett alone, and even their long-credulous victim has lost faith in their power.

It takes its place with the remarkable records of crime and criminals in Breathitt county previously given by B. J. Ewen and Moses Feltner. Lacking the dramatic features, the picturesque details and gruesome novelty of the others, which were the accounts of witnesses, it is still more notable than either of them, because it is the first narrative of the man who fired the shots which brought death to Jim Cockrill and J. B. Marcum.

If the rest of Kentucky applauded the pluck of Ewen when he took the witness stand and testified against Jett and if it marveled at the particulars laid bare by Feltner, who, with the shrewdness of Old Slenth, won the favor of one side to get its secrets for the other, how it must shudder at the confession of Jett. The nonchalant, laconic, stolid, almost sullen style of the narrator shows how morally sterile he is; the lightness with which he and the murderous conspirators who owned him regarded the shedding of human blood, reveals how low the whole slastardly gang is. He, a weak, unschooled youth, got right under the thumbs of the men who have been able to "put through" with brilliant success any sort of mischief they plotted. He relied on them to "put through" his safety from prosecution after the murder of Jim Cockrill and J. B. Marcum. An outraged public opinion arose, much to the surprise of the gang, and Jett was convicted of one of the crimes. The men who instigated the assassination of which he was the instrument of execution have gone unpunished. They have fought their way through courts. They have been in great peril of conviction, but so far they have been above the law. Some of them who held office have lost their offices; some are facing indictments which may result eventually in their being subjected to the law's penalty which they have so flagrantely defied. In their interest in themselves they have lost interest in their feeble tool, Jett, and he, enraged by the abandonment, tells the whole black story. In doing so he but emphasizes his own wanton depravity.

KING BROS.

Incidentally, he illustrates the paradox of his nature, for he casually mentions how one of the murderers' conference was interrupted by his own arrival. He never to swi-

Jett proves himself a good, thoughtful fellow who is wrong because he has not seen mind or the will to do right. He is moved by the emotions developed in him by outsiders and not from impulses arising within himself. He is a criminal, but he is not a monster, for he has not the wit for this. He can not originate plots; he executes the designs prepared by others. Shallow of mind and superficial of nature, he yields to the pressure of stronger men. It is easier to do their bidding than to resist.

This is the tool who has "peached" on the gang. His tale confirms finally the testimony of Feltner and Ewen. The trail leads still more clearly to those whose puppet he was—Courier-Journal.

F. G. Begley, postmaster at Hazard, and John G. Combs, of the same place, were the guests of Dr. James P. Boggs from Saturday until Monday, on their way home from Louisville where they had been attending the Home Coming exercises.

Circuit court begins at Beattyville next week. In addition to their own docket, quite a number of cases from this court have been transferred there from this court on a change of venue.

FOR CASH IN HAND.

We will, until September 1st, 1906, sell anything in our line of merchandise for cash and carriage. Goods to be charged will be sold at the usual profits. We want everybody to come and see the difference between what goods cost and what they are sold for.
